Strategic Plan 2013 – 2018

New South Wales Reconciliation Council

Advancing reconciliation in New South Wales through the promotion of equitable and just communities that acknowledges and respects Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander peoples, cultures and values.

The New South Wales Reconciliation Council acknowledges and pays respect to the traditional owners and custodians of country throughout NSW and Australia.
About Us: New South Wales Reconciliation Council
The NSW Reconciliation Council is the peak representative body for reconciliation in NSW. We are an independent not-for-profit and non-partisan organisation. Our membership is currently made up of 60 reconciliation groups across NSW – Indigenous and non-Indigenous people working together to advance reconciliation in their communities.

We recognise that reconciliation is, and must continue to be, a People’s Movement that can inspire and effect changes in the way that Indigenous and non-Indigenous people live together in this country.

Background
The final recommendation of the 1991 Royal Commission into Aboriginal Deaths in Custody report stated that immediate support for the reconciliation process was needed for the prevention of further injustice for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. The Royal Commission recommended:

“That all political leaders and their parties recognise that reconciliation between the Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal communities in Australia must be achieved if community division, discord and injustice to Aboriginal people are to be avoided. To this end the Commission recommends that political leaders use their best endeavours to ensure bi-partisan support for the process of Reconciliation and that the urgency and necessity of the process be acknowledged.”

In response to this recommendation, the Federal Government established the Council for Aboriginal Reconciliation in 1991 for a ten-year period to operate until 31st December 2000. The Council’s Vision was:

“A united Australia which respects this land of ours, values the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander heritage, and provides justice and equity for all.”

The New South Wales State Reconciliation Committee was formally launched in 1997 as the representative body for reconciliation in NSW. At the State Reconciliation Committee’s AGM in 2001, members formally constituted a new body to carry on the work of the Committee - and the NSW Reconciliation Council was formed.
The NSW Reconciliation Council is committed to continuing and sustaining the process of reconciliation as recommended by the Royal Commission into Aboriginal Deaths in Custody.

Our Strategic Framework
The strategic plan forms part of the planning and reporting actions for the New South Wales Reconciliation Council. The Strategic Plan provides a set of objectives and a framework for achieving them over the next five years, and provides the working tool and basis for:

› Development of the annual NSWRC Budget
› Annual performance reports to the NSWRC Management Committee, staff and our Members
› The Annual Report
› Development of Business/operational plans
› Other Performance and acquittal reports for funders and associated stakeholders

Benefits of Reconciliation
Social
Achieving equality of health, education, housing, employment, law and justice for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Australians in New South Wales improves standards of living for Indigenous Australians to be the same as other Australians, without loss of cultural identity.

Australian society is enriched by the significant contributions made by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. A fair and just Australia strengthens our national identity benefiting all Australians.

Economic
Greater economic participation by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people through sustainable employment improves financial security and prosperity, which brings significant social and economic benefits for the individual, their families and communities and all Australians. Further, with increased access to jobs and workplaces, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples’ different experiences, perspectives, skills and the cross-transfer of these into workplaces promotes greater productivity and inclusiveness in workplaces.
Cultural
Recognising and understanding Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples cultural value systems, spirituality, connection and belonging to the land, promotes shared responsibilities in caring for our environment and enrichment of our national identity.

Knowledge
With genuine acknowledgement, recognition and acceptance of our shared history, mutual understanding promotes relationship building to strengthen Communities in New South Wales by eliminating discrimination.

Statement of Purpose
To advance the reconciliation process in New South Wales through the promotion of equitable and just communities which acknowledge and respect Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, cultures and values.

Vision
A reconciled New South Wales and Australia

Our guiding Principles and Values
The NSWRC will be guided by a strong commitment to the following principles and values:

Equity
- Affirming and advocating principles of non-discrimination and equality
- Working to achieve social and economic equity for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- Ensuring equality of opportunity for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in New South Wales

Respect
- We acknowledge the distinct rights and unique status of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples as the First Australians
- Recognising the continuing relationship Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people have with traditional lands and waters, and their unique histories and diverse cultures, customs and circumstances, and the significant contribution Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples make to New South Wales and Australia
- Respecting Elders and their role as community leaders

Social Justice
Addressing a history of exclusion, dispossession, and oppression in New South Wales to ensure every Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander person is free to participate fully and to reach their individual potential

Increasing public understanding of social justice issues and awareness of the meaning and workings of reconciliation to change the context in which debates about the challenges faced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities take place at the individual, community and state levels

Upholding the standards and charter of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples; including the rights of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander individuals, communities and organisations to control their own destinies

Community
- Strengthen positive relationships based on trust and mutual respect between Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and non-Indigenous Australians to build relationships among all Australians to overcome Indigenous disparity
- Working together to support and facilitate community action to bring about positive change for all

Integrity
- Recognition and respecting for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultural diversity and protocols to encourage appropriate working practices as an organisation and throughout the reconciliation movement in New South Wales
- Being transparency, open and accountable in the management of NSWRC resources

Innovation
- We practice and encourage new kinds of learning and knowledge creation.
- We are open to new conversations and responsive to change in the reconciliation movement

Organisational goals – strengthening our organisation

Organisational Goal 1:
Effective, accountable, sustainable

The NSWRC will work with best practice principles and processes across all aspects of administration and will be supported by a sustainable funding base.

We will operate an effective, accountable and sustainable organisation by:

- Adopting robust & cohesive systems and strategies across all operations
- Operating with a continuous improvement approach, regularly reviewing & updating policies & procedures
- Implementing staff and board development plans & succession plans
- Maintaining strong partnership with NSW government
- Conducting public fundraising appeals
- Developing NSW Reconciliation Council supporters scheme
- Sourcing corporate and philanthropic sponsorship

Organisational Goal 2:
Strong leadership, good governance

The NSWRC will be supported by a governance structure that ensures strong leadership and enables the achievement of the organisation's goals.

We will ensure the organisation has strong leadership and direction by:

- Adopting and maintaining a governance structure that enables the achievement of the NSWRC’s strategic objectives
- Maintaining a board that is inclusive & representative of the reconciliation movement in NSW
- Ensuring our governance structure allows for efficient and effective decision making
- Maintaining sound governance practices in accordance with the NSWRC Constitution
- Ensuring all board members operate with clear understanding of their roles and responsibilities
- Providing strong leadership & strategic direction to management & staff
- Regularly reviewing and updating governance processes and the NSWRC Constitution.
Organisational Goal 3: Partnerships

The NSWRC will foster strategic partnerships and engage in joint initiatives to achieve shared reconciliation objectives.

We will work in partnership with other organisations by:

- Establishing & fostering partnerships with peak Aboriginal organisations
- Strengthening & maintaining strong relationships with other organisations (government, private or community sector) working to advance reconciliation
- Continuing to work effectively in partnership with the NSW Government
